Hi PayPay Recruitment Team,

I'm Peter Roper, a Product Designer with over 20 years of experience crafting end-to-end design solutions. I've heard consistently positive things about PayPay's design team and culture through my former colleague Jonathan Chen, so I was genuinely pleased to see this role open.

Currently, I'm a Senior Product Designer at Asurion Japan, where I've spent the past five years leading design across two of the company's main customer-facing services. My role bridges product and process—I collaborate closely with PMs, BAs, engineers, and QA to ensure alignment across the full design lifecycle. Alongside this, I support design operations through work in Figma: evolving our design system, refining developer handoff, building large-scale prototypes, and contributing regularly to usability testing.

I'm interested in the Product Design role at PayPay because I feel the culture would let me bring together the process and structure I've learned in a large organization with my early agile startup experience and my own personal drive to solve and improve. At my core, I value teamwork and collaboration, and I think the combination of your culture, my proactive nature, and life experience would be a great fit.

Thanks for reading—It would be great to connect.

Peter
